*Is there a supernatural dimension, a world beyond the one we know? Is there life after death? Do angels exist? Can our dreams contain messages from Heaven? Sid: Hello. Sid Roth here. Welcome to my world where it's naturally supernatural. I love the rarified air of Heaven. That's what I mean by naturally supernatural, that God's Kingdom would come on Earth as it is in Heaven. My guest, Peter Horrobin has keys as to why you've been robbed of your health, why you've been robbed of your joy, why you've been robbed even of your destiny. Now Peter, there are doors that need to be open. What are some of the doors that are robbing us?

Peter: Our lives are a bit like a house where there's lots of rooms, and when something bad happens we actually close the door and lock it away, and we move on and do it again and again, and again. And some of those things behind those closed doors could be sexual abuse where we've been abused as children. It could be rejection. It could be traumas. It could be somebody who's caused a terrible accident and we blame them, and we're holding them in bondage. Many such things from the past, events which we are locked into, and because we haven't understood that the basic lessons that Jesus included within what we call the Lord's Prayer: "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who have trespassed against us."

Sid: You know, I have to tell you something, and I haven't told you this before. I have sat under a lot of teaching on forgiveness, but there is something so supernatural on your teaching. As a matter of fact, you call it, and I would, too, the most powerful prayer on Earth. I have been using, this is just one of many keys, but I have been using this key and I use it instantly when someone offends me, and it is, it's supernatural. Explain the most powerful prayer on Earth.

Peter: Well when Jesus was put on the cross, he was being nailed there by Roman soldiers, and his words were, "Father, forgive them. They don't understand what they're doing. They don't know what they're doing." And earlier in his teaching he had said, "Bless those who curse you." Now why would you want to bless somebody who's cursing you? Why would you want to forgive somebody who is nailing you? And the reality is that because of the fallen nature of our own hearts we want to get back at people, and when we choose to be in revenge in business and we attack them in our thinking, we're actually locking ourselves in to what they have done to us. And when...

Sid: In effect, we're drinking the poison that we want them to take.

Peter: Exactly. And this is like a Divine law. What we want for other people actually comes back and is the judgment upon us. But when Jesus said, "Bless those who curse you", he was giving us a guideline for life. He was giving us a principle through which to live, which he put right there into the Lord's Prayer. And you know, after he had given us the Lord's Prayer, gave the disciples the prayer, they said, "Lord, teach us how to pray." And that first bit was, "Your Kingdom come on Earth." That's the kingdom authority of God being lived out throughout our lives here and now. He then said, "Forgive us our sins as we forgive others." But after he had given the disciples the Lord's Prayer, you know, he was a brilliant teacher, he always came back and he just reinforced the key things. And he said to the disciples, "If you don't forgive then my Father in Heaven will not forgive you." Oh. That's quite shocking.

Sid: Well you know, I have to believe if those words or literal that if I chose, and it really is a choice, if I choose not to forgive I'm not going to be forgiven. Now if I'm not forgiven, you don't have to be a mental giant to figure out an unforgiven person does not go to a place called Heaven. That's a horrible consequence.

Peter: But this is really what Jesus was saying, that if we don't forgive others then we cannot receive forgiveness. See, we're giving out a message to God, talk about the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would be done by." So what do you want to do to others? I don't want to forgive them. Therefore, how do you want to be done by? I don't want to be forgiven. It's like a Divine law. You say, I'm not going to forgive somebody. Okay. You're telling God I don't want to be forgiven. But when we actually come to that place of saying, "God, with your help I choose to forgive those who have hurt me", what we're doing is simply this, we're taking them off the hook of our lives and we're putting them on God's hook.

Sid: I like that. That's worse than anything I could do to anyone.

Peter: Yeah. They're still accountable to God, because sometimes people say, well they don't deserve to be forgiven. You know, that's absolutely true. You know, Sid, you do not deserve to be forgiven for your sin and nor do I.

Sid: I know.

Peter: It's not a question of do you deserve to be forgiven. Forgiveness is an act of grace and an act of mercy. And we've come to God and say, "God, in your mercy, will you forgive me?" And He says, "Are you going to do to others in the same way that you're asking me to do?" You know, he told that parable, didn't he, of the servant who had been let off huge debt by the king. And what did he do? He went out and started to put somebody in prison for a small debt. And we're a bit like that sometimes. We ask God to forgive us of everything that we've done wrong because in our hearts we're still argh, angry, bitter resentful against people who have hurt us.

Sid: And what is that doing to us when we're bitter, angry and resentful?

Peter: Well it does three things. One, it affects our relationship with God in Spirit. Two, it affects our emotions, the way we think and our mind the way we think, and our reactions, and then our body begins to pick up the message. And the message that our body picks up is that business and resentment, and anger are now going to be in control the way our body behaves. And even the medics will tell us that people who have got bitterness in the heart they're much more vulnerable to things like arthritis, physical conditions, which are a direct consequence.

Sid: I'm amazed at how this is such a key to so many things. Don't go away. You're going to hear about amazing true life stories of people just like you.

Man: Lord, why aren't my prayers being answered?

Woman 1: Please, Jesus, take away my broken heart.

Woman 2: Oh God, please tell me why I've not received my healing.

We now return to It's Supernatural.

Sid: Hello. Sid Roth here with Peter Horrobin. And some of you have been abused when you were a child and you buried it deep. But it's time for freedom for you. It's time for you to be free. Peter, tell me the story of that woman in Russia, Olga.

Peter: Yeah. Baba Olga came to one of our conferences and Olga, being brought up in Russia, she had had a really abusive childhood, but then she was sexually abused by Russian officers in the Communist system. She had a horrendous childhood. Then she met and married an American barber who was over there on business and he brought her back over here. And years later she has scoliosis of the spine, constant pain, constant physiotherapy, no hope of anything being healed. And she came to the teaching on forgiveness. And as she heard the teaching that I had been sharing from the Word of God she suddenly realized that God was saying there's a link between her twisted spine and the pain she's in constantly, and the abuse that she suffered as a child. And right there sitting in the seat just listening to the teaching, even before I prayed for anybody, you know, you don't have to have someone pray for you. When you begin to actually put things right in your own heart, the Spirit of God...

Sid: And by the way, some of you can be doing that right now right as Peter is talking.

Peter: Absolutely. Yeah.

Sid: Come on now. Your parents didn't raise a dumb person. Do something. Go ahead.

Peter: So as I was teaching she heard the message, "forgive" and she forgave. And as she was sitting there in the conference she began to feel her spine being straightened. She couldn't understand what was going on, but she knew that there was a link now that God was working out. When she got home that night, she looked at herself in the mirror and her previously twisted spine was absolutely straight. All the pain had gone. And she came back the following day to the conference just absolutely rejoicing. She had forgiven. She turned as it were the master key, I like to talk about it, she had forgiven and she had spoken blessing out on those who had abused her and hurt her.

Sid: She opened the door that had been closed with all of that pain.

Peter: Absolutely.

Sid: And the pain left.

Peter: Jesus went into the room with her.

Sid: I like that even better.

Peter: And all the pain and all the suffering, and all the demonic power, she was delivered. She knew she was being delivered of spirits of infirmity that were affecting her spine and holding it in that twisted position.

Sid: Tell me about the woman in Rwanda.

Peter: Yeah. Frieda was in an incident in the middle of the Rwanda genocide. All her family had been gathered together and they were about to be murdered. And the people who were doing the killing just gave them the option of how they were going to die. And they all chose how they were going to die. They were too poor to buy a bullet, which would have been quick, and so they were hit on the back of the head by machetes. And she watched as her younger brothers and sisters were murdered one by one in front of her, and her mother, and all the rest of her family, 15 members of her family, and she was the 16th. All of them were put into a shallow grave. Fourteen hours later, someone sat on that grave and heard a noise from underneath.

Sid: She was buried alive with all of her dead relatives.

Peter: She was buried there. Absolutely. They thought she was dead. And she made a noise and that was her. And they scrambled underneath and they pulled her out. So she had been alive for 14 hours with 15 dead members of her family. She fled the country. Out of the country, she met a friend who introduced her to Jesus and she began to read what she calls The Book. And in The Book she began to see that, not only had Jesus given her new life and relationship with God, but He wanted to live His life through her. And in The Book it said, "Forgive." And so she was like, "I've got to forgive." And when she came back to Kigali after the genocide was over, she went to the jail where the man who had done the massacring was in jail and she spoke forgiveness to him for what he had done.

Sid: How could she do that? Explain to me how she could do that. I mean, someone that murdered, I mean murdered by hitting your relatives, your mother, your father, your brother, your aunt, your uncle on the head, and you, you're knocked out and they're all put into a grave. You didn't do anything wrong, nothing wrong. You're buried alive and you're telling me she went to the prison and forgave that person?

Peter: She did. And that was the grace of God. You cannot do it except He gives you the courage to do it. And it's exactly the same thing. How could Jesus forgive those who were nailing him to the cross? It's actually a very similar situation. And he said, "Bless those who curse you." And when she came away from the jail she was a different person. Many years later, she wanted to help her fellow Rwandans. And she came to one of our schools to train, but she was constantly in pain. The back of the head where she was hit with the machete, the pain never went away. Every night when she sank into semi-consciousness on her pillow, she was sinking into the grave, along with all the dead relatives. The trauma was right there every single night. And that conference, that school that she came on, I prayed with her that Jesus would go right into those memories, right into that moment of trauma, right into that moment when she had actually been put into the grave and to heal her at that moment in her history. And a transformation took place. The following morning she came down from her room and she said, "For the first night since the genocide I have slept without any nightmares. I have no pain in my head." I've been back to Rwanda, been to her home and she and her husband are now pastor of a 3000-strong church in Kigali.

Sid: Can you imagine that from being buried alive to being a pastor of a 3000-member church? If Frieda could forgive, it's easy. It's easy for you to forgive. When we come back, I'm going to have Peter pray for you. Don't go away.

We'll be right back to It's Supernatural.

We now return to It's Supernatural.

Woman 1: I was very sick and I could not understand why God didn't heal me.

Man: I felt as if all my prayers were being blocked.

Woman 2: I just couldn't forgive my father for leaving us. It was like a cancer eating me up on the inside.

Sid: You know, there is a real consequence to sin. There's a real consequence to unforgiveness. Peter Horrobin, tell me about Sarah.

Peter: Sarah was very badly abused by her father and the consequence of that abuse was long term. But you know, as she was growing up between the age of 9 and 18, she was constantly being used in a sexual and a physical way. When we first met her, she was in psychiatric care because in her late 30s she had completely fallen apart. She could no longer keep all the pain down and it broke out, and she was in psychiatric care, and she was on a lifetime psychiatric disability pension in the United Kingdom. The psychiatrist didn't believe there was any hope for her. And it was at that point she heard about our retreat and she got permission to come out of hospital under the care of the psychiatrist to come on this retreat. And she learned about forgiveness. She didn't want to forgive. She'd had a terrible experience. And yet, unless she'd forgive, and she knew that from the Word of God, unless she forgave she would never be able to enter into the freedom that Jesus had for her. It was a long process. But she came to that point of saying, "I choose to forgive." The psychiatrist, he was amazed when he saw her again. Yes, she wasn't completely whole. She wasn't off medication, but she was different. And so he gave permission for her to come for a longer period of time. Three months later, my wife went back to see the psychiatrist with her and he said, "I don't need to see you again." She was off all medication. She had been able to forgive, and not only forgive, the healing had been flowing on the inside. Today she is totally restored. Having come from a lifetime of psychiatric disability, she's now completely whole. She's more whole perhaps than anybody I had ever known.

Sid: Peter, I am feeling, I don't know what it is. It's a presence of God. It's like honey. It's smooth. You're supposed to pray right now for people. There's an anointing for something special right now.

Peter: There are many people who are watching this who have issues in their life, perhaps people who have been especially abused. They've struggled with things in secret, and I'm speaking to you right now. If you know that in your past there are people who have done things to you, unspeakable things, things that perhaps you have never been able to talk about. They've robbed of you your future. They've robbed you of relationships that have made it impossible for you to live in a normal way. I want you right now to ask God to give you the grace to forgive them, to release them into the freedom of your forgiveness and to say, "I choose now to forgive John, forgive Mary", whatever their name may be, for whatever it is they've done and say, "I release you". And then ask Jesus to come and heal you. Ask him to come and set you free. Ask him to come and set you free from the powers of darkness. Ask him to let you out of the prison that you're in so that you can begin to get out into the open spaces of life and begin to enter into your destiny. He will do it. It's our choice whether we want to ask him to do it. I pray that you'll have the courage to make that choice.

Sid: The presence of God is so sweet. Tell me about the woman that had her fourth pregnancy and enough was enough.

Peter: This was an amazing story because she couldn't afford to have another child and she fell pregnant, and she wished this child dead. She wanted it to die in the womb. And so she actually cursed this child to death. The child didn't die. Many, many years later, something like 40 years later, she was present in one of my conferences and she heard me teaching about the words that we say can bring cursing upon other people. And she suddenly was convicted by the Spirit of God about what she said about her daughter. And she came and asked for prayer. And she confessed of her sin. And I spoke forgiveness to her. And she was just about to sit down when I suddenly heard the voice of God saying, "You've got to pray for the daughter." So I called her back and through the mother I prayed for this woman, who I didn't know anything about her.

Sid: She wasn't even there.

Peter: She wasn't even there. I just prayed that God would set her free from whatever had come upon her in her mother's womb. A year later back in the same church, this woman came running across the hall of the church with a photograph of a baby. Now here's this woman. She's in her mid-60s and I thought, this is a miracle.

Sid: Peter, does this look familiar?

Peter: That's the baby. And she said, "This baby was born to my daughter. Do you remember praying for her?" And for a moment I didn't. But then I was reminded and she told me the story that this woman, her daughter, had been married for 14 years and they had been unable to conceive a child and were told that there was no hope whatsoever that they could ever have a child. Within a week of me praying for the daughter to be set free from whatever curses came upon her because of the wrongful words of her mother, she conceived a child, and this woman is so thrilled. She now has a grandson.

Sid: People are being healed right now. Tell them. Speak to them.

Peter: Yeah. As you receive truth into your heart about what God does to other people, you know what it does? It lifts your faith. And as you suddenly can see that if God's done it for somebody else, He can do it for me. So receive that now. Receive the joy of healing and the joy of healing flows out of your spirit into your soul and into your body. So invite Jesus now to let the joy of his healing flow through your spirit into your soul, into your body as you forgive others, as you confess the things that you've done wrong. You know, it says in James, "Confess your sins once and know that you may be healed." As we bring to God the things that we've done wrong that He can bring His restoring life into our lives and give us back our destiny.

Sid: You know, I think it's interesting. You talk about people have to forgive, ask for forgiveness for what they've done. They need to forgive other people. They, some of you need to forgive God. If in one minute, you can tell me a story of someone that needed to forgive.

Peter: Yeah. See, if we blame God for things that He's not done we're actually putting Him, as it were, in the jail.

Sid: Stupid!

Peter: Absolutely. Satan is the god of this world, that man through his sin has put Satan in place, and the bad things that happen are Satan's fault. So if we blame God, what we're actually doing is saying that God is responsible for the works of the enemy. And sometimes people need to get to that place of saying, "God, I am sorry for blaming you." You know, there's many, many people who have had to walk this through. Sarah was one of those. She had to come to that place of saying, "God, why didn't you protect me?" She was blaming God for the fact that she was not protected from her father's abuse. And she said, "God, I am sorry for blaming you."

Sid: "Father, forgive them. They know not what they do." That was the prayer from the cross. And the moment, the second someone does something against you, say that, even out loud if necessary. Father, forgive them. They're ignorant. They know not what they do. I want you to see those same people you saw that said they could not forgive, at the beginning of this segment, and here's what they're going to say after they've forgiven. Look at the change in their life. Same change is going to happen in your life.

Woman 1: See, once I truly, truly forgave them for what they did to me only then did God heal me.

Man: It's like the heavens are no longer brass. My prayers seem to be getting right through to God Himself.

Woman 2: You'll never know the freedom that it brings until you learn the importance of forgiveness.
